Everything in life is defined in terms of time, and the Class of 1995 is not an exception. School life for us is all a matter of time. Everyone has a set time that they hear the alarm clock ring and the buses come at certain times each day. School starts at precisely 8:00 and being late means hearing the words we all hate . . . "office session." There's the different hours ending at specific minutes and the students look forward to hearing the bells ring. Everyone knows that the day ends at precisely 2:09 and we all watch the clock anxiously until this time. Then we have extracurricular activities that begin at 2:15, The different terms, the different semesters, the different years . . . just about everything deals with time.

When the six representatives of the 1995 yearbook staff went to Jostens Yearbook Seminar in late June, their first task was to decide on a theme for the Stotonian that would accurately describe this class. It had to be something that would remind us of what the past has held, our successes, and our lives at Stoughton High School. What time will hold in the future still remains to be seen. Will the friendships last? Will we all succeed? Will we live up to our youthfully high expectations? We'd like to think so . . . but Only Time Will Tell.

What is time . . .
is it real or a figment of my imagination?

Do the faces of babies and the elderly reflect it or is that not time?

Will time pull friends away from each other or will they grow closer, stronger?

Is a clock really
the tool of time
or are the ticks
just lying to me?

Where will I be when time has passed and where will you be, too?

Time, tell me what you are-what will happen? Time, only you can answer me.

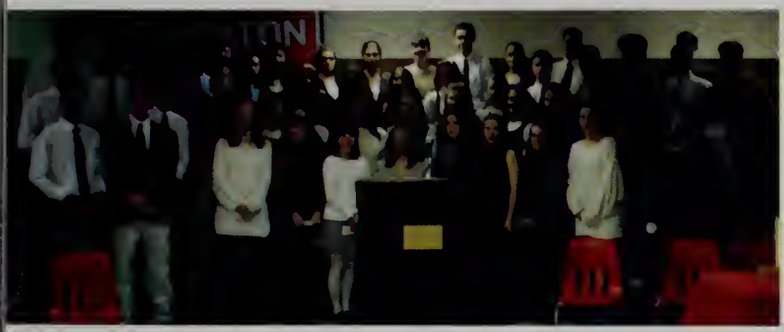
Times To Remember . . . . Page 17.

Time's Up . . . . Page 51.

Do You Have The Time? . . . Page 75.



Spare Time . . . . Page 85.

Timing Is Everything . . . . Page 103.

91 What Happened During Our Freshman Year? 92

By Patti Pierre

The fall of September 1991 marked the inception of the high school careers for the Class of 1995. Fresh from junior high school these bright, energetic students were eager to take their places in the world.

The event that dominated the year of 1991 was the Persian Gulf War. Originally a precautionary measure entitled Operation Desert Shield, it was intended to protect and liberate the tiny country of Kuwait from the over-zealous forces of Iraqi leader Saddam Hussein. A relatively new enemy to the United States, Hussein was bent on controlling the rich oil fields that make up the majority of the Kuwait Gross National Product. A short war lasting only a handful of months would include bombings by Hussein in Israel and giant air offensives on the part of the U.S.A. all over Iraq, especially the capital of Baghdad. The anti-Iraqi coalitions formed would eventually overcome and restore relative peace to the Middle East, but the after-war trauma in Iraq left millions of Arabs heading north, in attempts to escape the tirade of Saddam Hussein. The many men and women who served so bravely in this war will always be remembered through pictures, memories and songs like "Voices That Care," a song performed by over one hundred members of the show business industry.

In September of 1991 the unemployment rate fell from 6.8% to 6.7%, increasing the reported number of payroll jobs in the United States by 24,000. This was one of the largest drops in recent history.

The case of Clarence Thomas came before Congress. Nominated for a vacated Supreme Court seat by then President George Bush, Thomas was accused by Anita F. Hill of sexual harassment. In a highly publicized case brought before the Senate Confirmation Committee that covered a number of weeks, he was acquitted of all charges and finally confirmed.

In the medical world, cancer among males rose 20.2%, while among females it increased 12.6%. However, cancer deaths among children declined to 38%. Magic Johnson, the star of the Los Angeles Lakers revealed that he had practiced unprotected sex at some time and had contracted HIV, the virus associated with AIDS.

1991 was a great year for entertainment, especially in the movies. The cinema held the world in the palm of its hand with films that were great for all members of the family. Top grossing films included Terminator 2: Judgment Day, Robin Hood: Prince of Thieves, The Silence of the Lambs, City Slickers, Sleeping With the Enemy, The Addams Family, Backdraft, Beauty and the Beast, Naked Gun 2½, and Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles II: The Secret of the Ooze.

Popular songs were "Black or White", Michael Jackson; "It's So Hard To Say Goodbye To Yesterday" by Boyz II Men; "All For Love" by Color Me Badd; "Set Adrift On Memory Bliss" by P.M. Dawn; and "Achy, Breaky Heart" by Billy Ray Cyrus. A high point was the Red Hot Chili Peppers" release of "Blood, Sugar, Sex, Magik" including songs such as "Under the Bridge" and "Give It Away" while older favorites like Elton John and Rod Stewart kept chugging along as strong as ever.

The tape of Rodney King's beating was shown continuously to television viewers and the trial of the accused officers incited riots and horror stories from the Los Angeles area and the National Guard was called in to keep the peace after some of the police officers were found innocent.

Finally the "end" of the Cold War occurred with the fall of communism in what is now the former Soviet Union. The transition to democracy was not particularly smooth and the world is still feeling repercussions from the switch of power from Mikhail Gorbechev to President Boris Yeltsin.

(Top) As the Soviet Union collapsed, Boris N. Yeltsin was elected president of the Russian Federation. His top priority was economic reform. (Middle) Billy Ray Cyrus and (Bottom) the Red Hot Chili Peppers are two musical groups that hit it big. (Middle Right) Saddam Hussein, the new world enemy.

92 What Happened During Our Sophomore Year? 93

By Shereen Russell and Christina Rodrigues

Our Sophomore year was full of many events. Clear-cutting was one way of clearing timber that the environmentalists wanted to eliminate in 1992 and 1993. Environmental groups want to protect the prime sanctuary for many threatened species.

Basketball great Larry Bird retired from the Boston Celtics after a 13-year career. The 35-year-old Bird was plagued by back problems for the last two seasons of his career. His brilliant passing, pinpoint shooting and rebounding made him the consummate team player.

Garth Brooks, whose introspective songs and rousing concerts lifted country music to new heights, was voted top entertainer by his peers for the second year in a row in 1992. Garth tops both the country and the pop charts with his 9-million-selling album "Ropin' the Wind."

Weather seems leaves a large amount of damage on both coasts. Hurricane Andrew carved its way through the Bahamas and hit south Florida with a powerhouse intensity before moving into Louisiana. The hurricane's 54-hour rampage, the most expensive natural disaster ever to hit this country, left an estimated 180,000 homeless in Florida alone. Hurricane Iniki dealt a direct blow to part of the Hawaiian Islands in September. Winds gusting up to 160mph and torrential rain hit Kauai Island, causing enormous damage.

The Environmental Protection Agency issued rules aimed at curbing industrial air pollution. The new rules outlined when businesses must obtain state pollution control permits under the Clean Air Act.

Barcelona, Spain, hosted the Summer Olympics in 1992 and it proved to be a bonanza for the United States-a total of 108 medals. A record 10,000 athletes, professional and amateurs, from 183 countries gathered in this rapidly modernized metropolis nestled between the mountains and the Mediterranean Sea.

Presidential politics-1992 style. President George Bush and his running mate, Dan Quayle, were the incumbents. The challengers were Arkansas Governer Bill Clinton and Tennessee Senator Al Gore as his running mate. Then there was Ross Perot, the on-again, off-again independent candidate.

(Right; Top-Bottom) Vanessa Williams says she looks forward to the day when a story will be written about her that doesn't contain the words Miss America. Environmental groups want to protect the prime sanctuary for many threatened species.

By September, the 47-year-old president was a seasoned veteran. His tax reform bill passed, the health care package was being fine-tuned and there was peace in the Mideast.

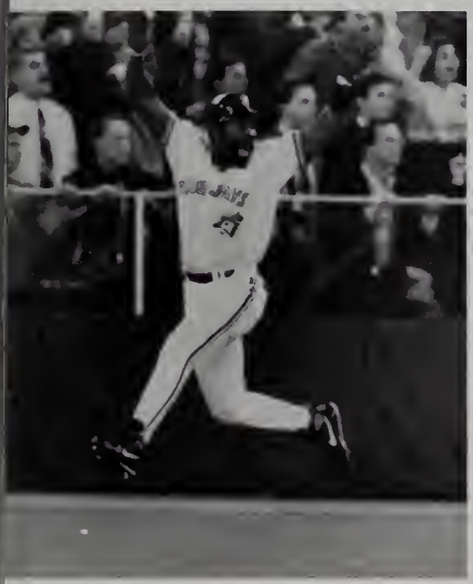
Right; Left-Right) Michael Jackson's popularity keeps rolling along. The 35-year-old entertainer makes news anywhere he goes. Pope John Paul II visited the United States for the third time since becoming pope fifteen years ago, The 73-year-old pontiff attended World Youth Day, a week-long pilgrimage that brought nearly 200,000 youths from around the world to Denver.



(Top; Left-Right) Yasser Arafat takes a moment after signing a peace treaty with Israel. Rev. Jean-Bertrand Aristide returns home to Haiti. President Jean-Bertrand Aristide returned to Haiti. A negotiating team, led by former President Jimmy Carter, struck a deal with Lt. General Raoul Cedras that included U.S. troops to occupy the island.

The Baseball Season ended early in 1994. The players went on strike in August and a month later the owners voted to cancel the remainder of the regular season, including the playoffs and the World Series. Working for our tomorrow . . .

When does the work end and fun begin? More and more high school students are finding it increasingly difficult to find a few hours in the day to sleep, let alone kick back and enjoy youth. For seniors, it is especially distressful; the pressure to make the grades to ensure a college future, filling out applications and scholarship forms, school work, athletic workouts, afterschool and weekend jobs- and all of this for what? High school is supposed to be the best years of our lives, but how can we enjoy the "prime of our youth" when we're too busy preparing for a future?

College is not, however, the only reason students are making their way into the working world. Cars, clothes, and travel expenses, among others, are constantly arising for students today. We work so we can finance a car that will transport us to work . . . do I sense a little Catch 22? Then, students, especially seniors, plan a vacation- somewhere sun soaked with the splash of ocean foam to allow themselves a few moments to drift away . . . Ahhh! But the other 358 days of the year are spent anchored to a job, working extra in order to pay for the very trip that's going to allow them to relax.

Weekends, what are those? This is the time our youths work most. At this point a forty hour workweek doesn't seem so bad! Monday through Friday students are going non-stop from 8 a.m., when the morning bell rings, until at least 10 p.m. at night . . . and that's not even entering the homework component! Luckily for most students their "work schedule" has some allotments for social activities . . . why, after all, we have our twenty minute lunch period! Seriously, though, the majority of students hold jobs where they interact with peers- so yes, jobs can be fun. And although we may be busting ourselves now to insure the future, I hope when we get to the future we remember our past as the best years of our lives!

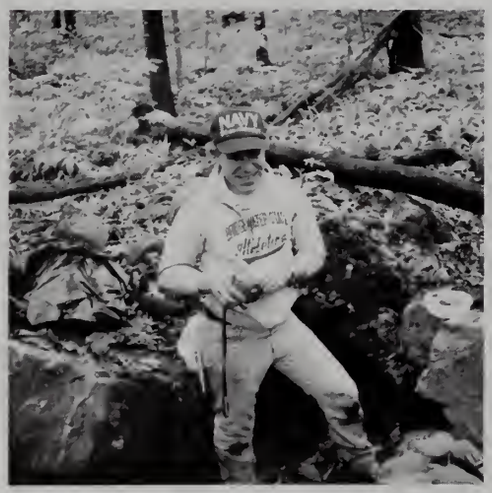
TIME'S UP

The Herkimer

For the past fifteen years Mr. Paul Monti of high school science department has been treating his students to something special. As an adjunct to his classroom lectures in geology, he invites his students to join him in some "hands-on" prospecting in pursuit of the "World Famous" Herkimer Diamond. The annual trip is the third Saturday in May.

On May 16, 1992 forty-two students accepted the challenge. Herkimer, New York is four hours from Stoughton High School and the trip began at 6:00 A.M. The students were looking for Herkimer Diamonds which are a unique form of doubly-terminated water-clear quartz crystals found only in and around the town of Herkimer in upperstate New York. These "diamonds" are found by digging in and sifting soil or by breaking up the bedrock with a hammer and chisel to reach the fracture zones and cavities in which the crystals are found. The students also found at Herkimer crystals of calcite, dolomite, amethyst, opal, anthraxolite, and others.

Getting there was half the fun and Mr. Monti contributed with his renowned Herkimer Diamond Song found on the opposite page. The rest of the story is in the pictures. The trip ends back at Stoughton High School at 10:00 P.M. with tired bones and life long memories.



(Top, Left-Right) Yes! We are ready. TAKE THE PICTURE and let's go! Yes Mr. Monti, we understand. We have our buckets and shovels. Can we go now? (Left, Top) Just try and get yourself out of this one. (Left, Bottom) Hey Bossman. A little dirty?! (Bottom, Left-Right) We are definitely not morning people and I refuse to wear these goggles! Don't just stand there, start digging.

THE HERKIMER DIAMOND SONG
(Sung to the tune of Yankee Doodle)

Stoughton High School went to Herk'mer just to find some crystals stuck a shovel in the ground and came up with a fistful.
(refrain)
Stoughton High School keep it up
Keep those diamonds coming
Mind your shovel and your sieve
And dig them while you're humming.

Mr. Monti led the way, he showed us where to find 'em
He pointed to the digging holes and we just had to mine 'em.
(refrain)

We filled our pockets and our pails and still we found some others
We brought'em home and cleaned 'em up and showed'em to our mother.
(refrain)

The bus ride home was lots of fun but everyone needed a shower
We stopped to eat and hammed it up, it took about an hour.
(refrain)

At last we saw old Stoughton High we won't forget this field day
We wish that we could go again but Monti told us "no way".
(refrain)

(Top, Left-Right) Mullen! What are you . . . hey nice sneakers. Payless, right? What are we looking for again? (Right) Awe! What a Kodak moment! (Bottom, Left-Right) Who ever said men do "the dirty work"? Yes. Pick up the rock and look under it. Oh. Yuk!

Splittin' Toothpicks

Why Bridge Day?

The aim of this project is to have students solve an engineering style problem, using their own observations and understanding of the world around. The students use trial and error methods. The study of Physics gives students an understanding of forces, but this problem is not based on classwork. Students rely instead on their ability to analyze and carry out a solution to a physical problem.

The task is to construct out of 200 toothpicks and glue a structure which will hold up a minimum of 3 kg (6.6 lbs.) placed on its center. A grade of "A" is awarded if the bridge holds 10 kg (22 lbs.) Students not only have to design and execute a three-dimensional structure, but also carry this out with toothpicks which are weaker at one end.

This year about 40% of the students achieved an "A" grade. Nineteen bridges held over 30 lbs. Mike McGauley's bridge held 67 lbs. (this matched the record of Laura Raisty).

Overall, "BRIDGE DAY" was a success. It was one of the few opportunities for seniors (since Physics is only offered to seniors) to compete against each other in a fun manner, yet still fulfill the educational purpose of "BRIDGE DAY".

A Royal Time
Homecoming Memories

Pure shock. That's how I felt when the Homecoming crown was put on my head. I have to admit, I did not expect to win at all. The competition I was up against was tough. The other girls had a lot going for them.

Just being one of the original thirty girls chosen by teachers was exciting. Having been chosen as one of the five Homecoming nominees was a real honor. All that was left was to choose an escort, find an outfit, and prepare for the big day. I could not believe that I was one of the nominees!! As I walked down the halls at school, I was congratulated by every student. It was a good feeling, and I am sure every other nominee went through the same thing.

The day of October 21 was hectic. A field hockey game against Canton was at 3:00 p.m. and from there I had to get ready for Homecoming. It was like taking a remote control and turning the channels from school, to the field hockey game, to Homecoming.

Well, the mind worked fine, but it was my nervous system that was going berserk. It was a brisk night. We all arrived around 7:30 p.m. and were ready to roll. We waited anxiously at the edge of the 50-yard line for half-time to arrive. Each name was called and each young lady walked down the field. At the end of this parade, the Homecoming Queen was announced. Mr. Sarno walked up to me and gave me a dozen peach long-stemmed roses and a beautiful crown was placed on my head.

It was all like one big water-slide-when you are at the top, you are not sure if you are going to make it. As you go down you are really nervous and are not sure what's going to happen. Finally, once at the bottom, you love the surprise and you want to do it again, but realize it's over.

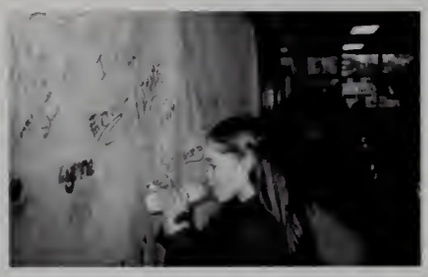
Lil' ghouls haunt the S.H.S.

On October 31, 1994, the Class of 1997 sponsored a town-wide Halloween party for preschool and elementary school aged children. This event was attended by over two hundred children and adults. The members of the class ran various activities for the children including dancing, face painting, nail painting, coloring, bowling, hula hoops, bean bag toss, and many other events. The party ended with a costume parade by the children and with prizes being given to the child with the scariest costume, the most original costume, and the funniest costume. The Class of 1997 offered a safe alternative to celebrate Halloween within the town. The parents were given an opportunity to involve their children in fun, productive activities, and the chance to sit down and enjoy a cup of coffee knowing that their children were having fun and supporting the efforts of the Class of 1997.



A Year Abroad

We learned many new things

Catherine Weeks traveled to Arhus, Denmark in Jutland as an exchange student during junior year. In Denmark she attended school at what's called a Gymnasium instead of a high school and you would travel with the same class all day. Also during her stay she traveled to England, Germany, France, Holland. Sweden, Norway, Italy, Finland and Austria.

The school Catherine attended had 300 students. In Denmark she liked being with the same students all day long and got to know members of the class better than she does here. The school is much smaller and everybody knows each other and you're not just another face in the crowd.

The teachers were different. You could talk to them as a friend and call them by their first name. You can't do that here. The only test you had was at the end of the year exam.

At home Catherine likes commons, the cafeteria food, and how the teachers stay after school for extra help. The school's sports program is better here as in Denmark you pay if you want to play.

The Denmark life style is basically the same except some don't have a car as the taxes are so high. Though the people have free health care and crime is very low. The people were wonderful, always helpful, speaking English helped Catherine feel right at home. Customs are similar to ours. Christmas Eve you open your gifts and during the evening you would sing and dance around the Christmas tree. In February they have a holiday similar to our Halloween. You go out trick or treating but instead of candy, money is given. Birthdays are celebrated by having friends visiting for breakfast. They are served a roll, juice and tea.

Food is prepared differently. All food is fried and bread, pasta, and milk are a larger part of their diet than here. Pork is their meat of choice and potatoes with gravy were eaten every dinner.

As an exchange student Catherine experienced many similarities and differences between the countries. She recommends being an exchange student as its a great experience! You make many new friends.

Thorsten may be remembered from Physics class, "Mr. Carey, what is a pop-up?" (as in baseball) or maybe even "Arthur-did you take my liquid paper?" But, he may best be remembered by the bright orange socks he wore up to his knees during Powder Puff.

So, what did he learn from being in Stoughton for a year? That, like his idol Kramer, from Seinfeld, he preferred briefs over boxers. From Bart Simpson, he learned the grace and poise that ballet brought with the art.

My sister Sedsel and I took a trip to Kobenhaven to see the Little Mermaid. We also went to Tivoli, a huge amusement park in the center of the city.

At Christmas time my family travelled to Esbejerg to spend time with Mormor and Farmor (Grandma and Grandpa). Here we are, Erick, Ea, Une, Ana Maria, Mormor and Marfar dancing around our Christmas tree.

Students show their true colors

1994-1995 Spirit Week

Spirit Week for the 1994-1995 school year was once again a rousing success, with SHS students really showing just how much spirit they have.

It all began with a new addition to the festivities, a recyclable can drive sponsored by the Recycling Club. This was followed by the annual College Sweat Shirt Day, with students showing off their favorite post-secondary gear. The Canned Food Drive was also a great success, raising much-needed food for the Stoughton Food Pantry and having fun in the process. Finally Orange and Black Day allowed students from all four classes to show their true colors, which just happened to coincide with those of the school.

As usual Spirit Halls was a highlight of the in-school excitement with each class doing their best to come out on top. The themes for this year were as follows: Class of 1998-"Nightmare on B 3rd"; Class of 1997-"Wizard of Oz"; Class of 1996-"Forrest Gump"; and finally Class of 1995- "Interstate 95."

The Annual Thanksgiving Rally completed the in-school festivities. Hundreds of students lost their voices continuing their spirit competition until all the winners were announced. As always the Marching Black Knights played to a rousing beat and the entire school showed its collective pride when the varsity football team and its captains were introduced. Finally, Student Council President Kristen Woessner announced the Class of 1995 sweep of the Spirit Week competitions as the gymnasium went wild.

The Rally was followed closely by the Powder Puff Football game held this year in Canton. The Lady Knights, coached jointly by Mr. Kelleher and Ms. Sullivan, played the Bulldogs in a hard-fought 6-6 tie. The game was highlighted by an untimely snow flurry and a wonderfully hilarious performance by the Powder Puff Cheerleaders.

The conclusion of the week was the Thanksgiving Day Football game, played here in Stoughton. Although the Black Knights lost by a score of 13-7, they played hard on the bitterly cold November Day.

Overall the 1994-1995 Spirit Week was great for all SHS students that participated.

Winter Dance
Come on in, it's warm inside!

It was a cold, wet December evening, the school's cafeteria had been transformed into a winter wonderland. The bland walls and ceiling were draped with silver garland and snowflakes. The cafe had never looked so good, thanks to the decorating done by members of the senior class and student council. The juniors provided refreshments and manned the snack bar - prepared to deal with the onslaught of thirsty dancers. The freshmen and sophomores had advertised during the weeks before and sold tickets for this exciting event. All that was needed were the people. Seven o'clock came and anxious dancers came pouring in. Some drove, others were chauffeured by parents, and still others arrived in the high class of limousines. The night was filled with fun and entertainment. The D.J. played a variety of songs and stirred up the crowd. The announcements of Senior Superlatives, photos, and the annual appearance of the Clauses and many spirited elves added to the carefree atmosphere. The music and festivities had drawn us to common ground, creating a feeling of warmth and unity amongst students. We were the student body enjoying the company of our peers. The announcement of our snow King, Chris Larsen, and Queen, Erica Curtis, was made and the two shared a dance while others looked on admiringly. Guests in attendance were not limited to just couples; there were many groups, large and small, of students, all of whom were anxious to join the party. Before the night was through even the most reserved of the chaperones had joined us in a dance or two. This finally brought us all together, circled around the dance floor, hands clasped together, joined for the last dance of the evening. Our school, for that one rare moment in time, was at peace. The dance was reflected upon as a great success. And to the Class of '95 it will be remembered as the best one ever!

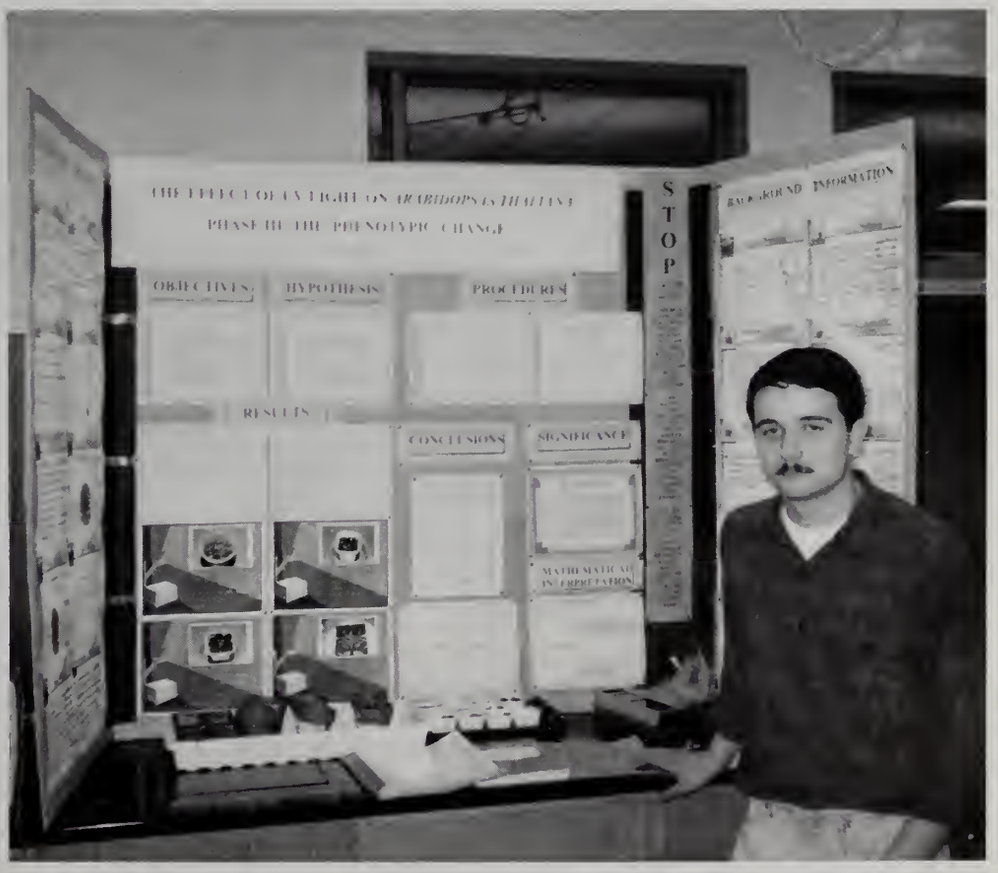
Science Fair 1995

March 8, 1995 was the date of the 37th Annual S.H.S. Science Fair. This night is a chance for students interested in the field of science to show the projects which they have spent many months gathering information and data for. This year over 128 S.H.S.ers from all four classes participated. The following people (and projects) were honored with awards: First - Jeffrey Clark, "Effects of UV-B on Phryganea ciherea and Elodea canadensis: Phase III;" Second - Ali Baaj, "Effect of UV Light on Arabidopsis thaliana Phase III: The Phenotupic change;" Third - Veronica Vieira, "The Geritol Solution to Global Warming;" Fourth - Lee Schneider, "Where Do Earthquakes Occur;" Fifth - Lindsay Rosenfield, "Mind Over Matter IV: What's the Hype About Hypertension?" Honorable Mentions were also awarded to ten outstanding participants: Yolanda America, Barbara Huppe, Alina Kaplan, Lynn Kimball, Hae Min Kwan, So Yun Kwan, Sheri Mezoff, Danielle Power, Tonslyn Touré, and Melissa Young.



When I'm With You

The Mansfield Holiday Inn was the place to be on May 5, 1995. The Junior Prom was the social climax of the year. Everyone worked to look their very best for the five hours they would spend together in the ballroom. Under the dance floor lights, lovers embraced, friends acted friendly, and both the polished as well as the not so polished dancers boogied to the beat of the Entertainer's deafening stereo speakers. It was a night where memories were made, dreams were fulfilled, and the possibilities were endless.

The theme "Yesterday's Dreams - Tomorrow's Memories" accurately conveyed the thoughts of all those in attendance. For one short night enemies and friends, students and teacher chaperones set aside their differences and were able to successfully proceed through the night's celebration. However, besides the prom theme there were some other noticeable party themes going on. Guys sporting dark shades, and girls lit up in sparkling sequence were just some of the more observable trends of the night. Prom night is a night where love, friendship, and relationships blossom. What happens from there on after, is all in how you imagined it!

Starry Night

To Remember . . . Always

The setting was the Sheraton Needham. The time was seven p.m., the twenty-sixth of May, nineteen hundred and ninety-five. It was a glorious day, the Class of 1996 Senior Prom.

The drive of the building was lined with white, gray, and black limousines of every make and size, with ladies and gentlemen were stepping out of them carefully, so as not to trip on a hem or pop the catch of a too-tight cummerbund. The couples stepped through the lobby being greeted, mostly by name, by Mr. Boushell, principal, and his assistant/partner in crime, Mr. Gormley. The grand ballroom was decorated with gold top hats and bright balloons and each of the tables held a floral centerpiece in hues of pink, purple, and white.

By the time the multi-course shrimp and chicken dinner was finished, the prom-goers were ready to dance the night away. Tables were pushed back to extend the dance floor and "The Entertainer" let the music flow. It was to be a "democratic prom, where everybody was a king or queen," in the words of senior class president, Elizabeth Ribeiro, with no court. The theme song that everybody danced to was "Always" recorded by the group Atlantic Star.

At midnight, when the dancing stopped and the last song had been played, the members of the Class of 1995 looked around at themselves and realized that this was their last prom. There would be no "next year . . . ". And with a few teary-eyed goodbyes and last-minute snapshots, they filed out of the room and back into their limousines for the last time, heading toward friends' houses or parties or just home. The senior prom for the Class of 1995 was truly a night to remember for all who attended.

Coo-Coo and the Class of 1995

The 1995 Senior Class Trip was one of those days that one can never forget. At six-fifteen a.m. on May 24, 1995 the faces of the two-hundred or so students who were going on the trip began appearing in the Adams Street parking lot, anxiously awaiting the arrival of Miss Churchill and the buses. By seven-fifteen after waiting for the typical few last-minute stragglers, the caravan set off in search of the Sunrise Resort (with the Johnson family), located in Moodus, Connecticut.

After a stop at a McDonald's off of Route 95, just over the Connecticut border, a stop which Miss Churchill's bus apparently missed, the caravan rejoined in the parking lot of the resort, where they were greeted by an old mutt named Schwepps and an even older man called "Coo-Coo." Millions of activities awaited the students on the grounds of the resort, including boating, swimming, diving, sand and court volleyball, softball, tennis, dancing, movies, eating, arcade games, and field games against the other school in attendance that day.

The trip provided a wonderful time to have a blast with pals that one might not see much in the next few years, or just sit on a grassy bank or lounge chair reminiscing about old times and dreaming about the future. Almost everyone can remember the dance contest in the mess hall won overwhelmingly by Steve Figuerido and Sandy Blatchford or the back dive that Mr. Kelliher, one of the chaperones, performed off of the high spring-board or the icy coldness of the pool's water or the barbecue lunch and dinner or . . .

By six o'clock the students had sunburns and longer-lasting memories, and were ready to pack it up and hop back on the buses and head straight home, save for one short pit-stop that Miss Churchill's bus did not forget. Yeah, the 1995 Senior Class Trip to the Sunrise Resort was a day that those who attended will never forget.

Saying Good-bye,

1995-Style

In the words of the illustrious Mr. Boushell . . . Welcome to Class Night, 1995-style!! Brimming with beach balls and somewhat lacking n the Video Yearbook department (mechanical probems prevented it from being hown), the night of Wednes-lay, May 31, 1995 was a night
o cherish.

It all began with the members of the Class of 1995 mill-ng around the cafeteria, whining about how to keep heir caps on straight and why their flowers were in a ifferent spot than their riend's. When it came time o line up by height, as we id in kindergarten, pals bent heir knees slightly or stood n their tippy-toes a bit so hey could sit near the people hey wanted to. The procesional into the auditorium where all our closest family nd friends sat was enough to ring a lump to the throat of he most macho of senior uys, especially when the nords of "Pomp and Cirumstance" were played by he S.H.S. band.

We were caught in a time
warp that night, somewhere etween high school and the est of our lives; the people round us were from our ast, but all the talk was bout our future. The awards resentations were times to heer on our closest friends, ut at the same time remember all that had brought us to this point. "We came here from a junior high that is no longer and now we must face the most uncertain times of our life. It's so sad, but it's so exciting!" exclaimed one senior. "We have so much to remember," said another.

Our years at Stoughton High School were the most developmental and influential of our entire life. We learned to think for ourselves, but at the same time we understood that it's okay to draw support from those around us. We learned how to balance fun and work and everything else that makes up the full life ahead of us. We experienced a trip to the Boston Garden and many other sports tournaments. We met Forrest Gump, Simba, Coo-Coo, and the waitresses at Bickford's a million times over. We pegged our jeans, unpegged them, and tied those funny knots on our dock-siders. We went through a lot together as individuals and as a class.

As the strains of "Pomp and Circumstance" began to play again, drawing us out of our individual subconscious musings, it became painfully clear that Class Night 1995 was a time to say good-bye to our pasts and look forward to what was yet to come.

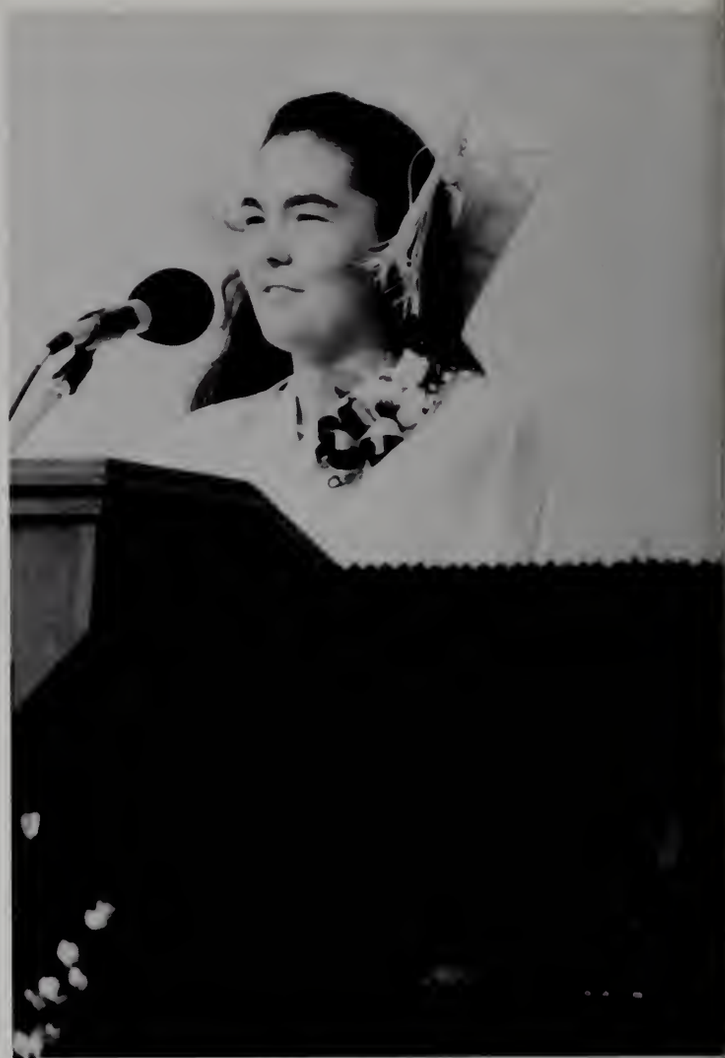
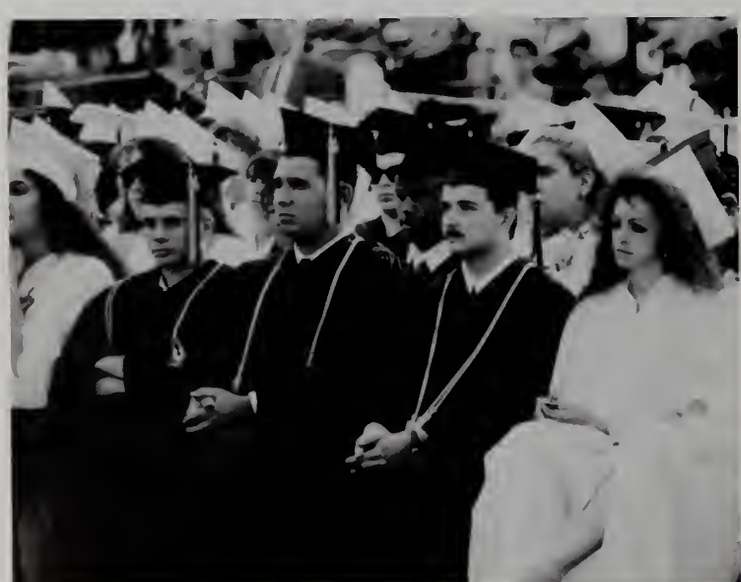
When I grow up . .

Finally, the night I've waited thirteen years for . . . Graduation! Walking down D-second to my homeroom I keep seeing familiar faces that I've spent my high school years with. It's 5:10 PM. and there's still over half an hour before we begin to line-up. "Homerooms, everybody, homerooms!" the call rang out through the D-second hall. There is so much commotion out in the hall that no one can move. We begin to line up in our homerooms with disbelief, that we are graduating tonight. I'm about to be with these people for the last time.

Filing down the stairs, across the track and down the football field, the fact that we are about to graduate begins to feel real. Hundreds of parents, siblings, relatives, friends and teachers fill the stands to welcome and congratulate the Class of 1995. The class files into its respective rows to the tune of "Pomp and Circumstance" and remains standing while Michael Hunter leads the singing of the National Anthem. As I sit in my chair and stare at the decorated caps in front of me, I realize that high school is finally over. Mr. Boushell, Mr. Sarno, and Mr. Milgroom and Mrs. Young address the graduating class and express their best wishes for the future. Speaking as valedictorian is Barbara Huppe who uses the theme of the "Lion King" to convey to the audience her message of success. Liz Ribeiro, our Class President, recounts our last four years of high school and is followed by Katie Pope, Class Vice-President, who compares the Class of 1995 to the famous box of chocolate in the Movie Forrest Gump. Crissy Woessner, Student Council President, told her fellow graduates that their future success is achievable only through self-reliance.

Now, the long wait is over. It's time for Mr. Sarno to begin the presentation of diplomas and scholarships. One by one my classmates file on to the stage and file back to their seats as graduates. As my row is called, I am in total shock. While, I am excited to be moving on, the reality of being finished with my Stoughton High School education has finally hit home. I receive my diploma proudly and return to my seat. In a matter of minutes the commencement exercises are completed. What I waited thirteen years for is over, just like that. Now, life in the real world is a reality. The question of "What do I want to be when I grow up? must be answered. -Sara Smeed





Memories of the past, thoughts of the future and the possibilities for success and growth were the prevalent themes as the class of 1995 became graduates during the high school's 126th commencement. Mariam Bakir, Andrew Baker, Carlos Bairos, Ali Baaj and Sonia Avelar listen as they're encouraged to work toward their goals.

(Top; Right) Valedictorian Barbara Huppe likened the challenges for success to the challenges faced by "Simba," the main character of the Walt Disney movie "The Lion King." "We can't wait to begin the next phase of our lives, just as Simba couldn't wait to become king," said Huppe. "We are all striving to become kings." (Bottom; Right) Those in attendance had come together as friends during their four years at the high school.

The school message was offered by Student Council President Crissy Woessner who told her fellow graduates that their future success is achievable only through self-reliance. "Always believe in yourself and always strive to be a success."

As part of the welcoming address, Michael Hunter leads singing the National Anthem during graduation exercises.

Class Vice-President, Katie Pope chose to dwell on the experience of high school and how, as Forrest Gump would have said "High school is like a box of chocolates, you never know what you're gonna get." She invoked the philosophy made popular by the 1994 movie starring Tom Hanks.

Marching in line proved to be more of a problem than one might have thought. We walked to "Pomp and Circumstance" as our relatives and friends fill the stands to welcome and congratulate the class of 1995.

Speeches, Screams and Memories . . .

Thoughts Of Our Final Day

Our high school years come and go with a blink of the eye. Today was the last day of our high school careers. With finals completed we prepare for our senior assembly. After a brief homeroom period the class was ushered directly to the auditorium. We proceeded straight to the assembly, without detour. Not one of us minded.

Taking our seats we got ready to the parting words of our principal, Mr. Boushell. The room was suddenly immersed with color and movement. Beach Balls. Many balls of every design and color were flying, bouncing off chairs, fists and heads. Time passsed, beach balls stopped and we again settled down to listen. Mr. Boushell began his speech and we listened to his compliments to our class. When his speech was finished questions were answered about Class Night and Graduation.

We were reminded that safety always came first, whether it applied to today or to any other day. We were reminded that if we planned to visit a rival town, we had better realize that the town would be ready. Advice well heeded, we were sent on our way. All but the route leading directly out to our cars was blocked by administrators. Not one of us minded. We headed to our cars and began our victory laps around the high school. Horns blaring, people screaming nothing could spoil our fun. Even the presence of the police couldn't pull down the Class of 1995's high spirits. In one week we would graduate.

Dear Members of the Class of 1995,

Congratulations on your graduation from Stoughton High School. You have achieved, grown, preserved, and earned the right and privilege to receive your diplomas. Throughout your high school years, you have developed not only your academic skills, but your "people" skills - what it takes to be a caring, responsible and compassionate person.

Remember all your lessons well, not just those learned in the classroom. Remember your friendships and successes, and just as importantly, remember what you have learned from your mistakes.

Now that this phase of your life is coming to a close, a larger, almost intimidating world stands before you. Take control of your future and "carpe diem" - seize the day. Your opportunities are limited only by your imagination. Reach for your goals with determination, integrity and responsibility.

Your education, as a responsible member of your family and society, is a continuous one. Make your family proud of your efforts, but more importantly, always be proud of yourself.

Good luck as you continue your journey!

Sincerely

Eric Milgroom, Chairperson

SPARE TIME

Almost There

Junior year is our first year to be upperclassmen. It is great not to be Freshmen or Sophomores anymore. This is our year to shine. The best thing about finally being a junior is we only have two more years of high school before we can start our future.

Our class has been looking forward to our junior year ever since we came to the high school. Four years ago, it seemed as though it would never arrive, but in fact, it came almost too quickly. Junior year is the most important year of high school. It's almost scary, what with PSAT's, SAT's, looking at colleges, and even finding a date for the prom. We have come this far, and there's no stopping us now! We are definitely moving in the right direction up!!

It has been a very productive year for the Class of 1996. We have held very successful fundraisers which have allowed us to earn money to help finance class activities. We participated in Spirit Halls and used "Forrest Gump" as the theme. A highlight during the winter, was the class sponsored ski trip. No one will forget Michelle Fisher breaking her arm. Unfortunately it kept her from playing basketball for about six weeks.

The main event of the year proved to be the Junior Prom. The prom was held on Friday, May 5th at the Holiday Inn in Mansfield. All the fundraising activities and the prom committee's hard work provided a prom which made every junior proud. These events wouldn't have been possible without the support of many class members, teachers and parents.

The Role of Sophomores

The Class of 1997 has been very busy this year adjusting to the roles of sophomores. In September, we started off with a candy fundraiser selling everyone's favorites, M & M's and Reece's. October came as did Halloween, the class sponsored the town wide Halloween party held in the cafe. Lots of little children in their colorful costumes got to have a safe and enjoyable evening. In November, it was time for the Spirit Halls. The theme the class agreed on was "The Wizard of OZ". We decorated the hall using lots of paint, paper, markers and art supplies. Decorating night held a festive air and was filled with fun, friends, and pizza! Thanks to all our hard efforts we won second place in the annual Spirit Hall competition.

The Winter Semi-Formal was held in December, a most spectacular time for all those who attended. The class was assigned to decorating the cafe, which turned out to be an amazing winter transformation. Mr. Boushell gave permission for the decorations to the left throughout the holiday season.

Once again in March we held another candy fundraiser (mmm . . . chocolate). In April, the site for the Junior Prom was selected. Our prom will be held at the Holiday Inn in Mansfield on May 10, 1996. The Class Ring Selection Committee decided on Balfour as the company to make our class rings, they will be available to order in June 1995, Sophomores will receive them in the fall of 1995. The final activity of the Class of 1997 will be to hand out programs at both Class Night and Graduation. All in all our sophomore year has been very busy, filled with many decisions, but proven to be a most successful and memorable experience.

We've got the Spirit!

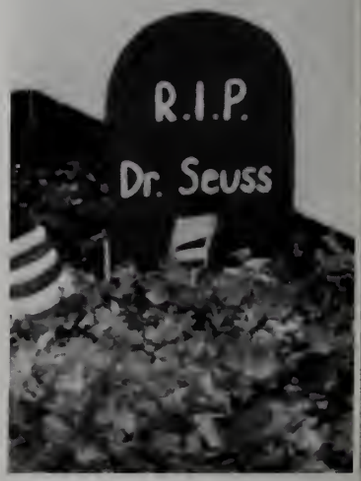
We're glad for the good of life beyond 8th grade. It is nice to have a title - FRESHMEN and the word that best describes the Class of 1988 is ENTHUSIASTIC! We began the year in September, as the beginning of our path to success. We met our class advisor, Ms. Helen O'Reilly and elected our class officers who would guide the class during the next school year.

Our class raised some money for our treasury selling a variety of popular candy. It was a fun way of getting our class to work together and raise money for a good cause. In October, B 3rd was transformed into a haunted house full of leaves, tombstones and ghouls. We came in last during Spirit Week even though we were third during Black and Orange Day. December blew in the Winter Dance complete with snowfilled walls and an appearance by the appearance by the "Clauses". The couples definitely knew how to turn it on on the dance floor.

The students of the Class of 1998 have a lot to look forward to - new ideas for fund raising, community service projects we will take part in - a move to expand us to bigger and better things. The class also has a number of varsity athletes who participate in many sports.

Sine the year had a defined purpose, the leaders of the class proved that their cooperation and diligence were advantageous to the class as a whole. The freshmen class moved on, they felt they were becoming more involved. They were trying to make this year special. The class of 1998 has more energy and the potential to do anything.

As the year came to a close, the success that these students received from the many worthwhile activities was proof that they were ready for the close bonds formed.



(Above) The resting place of Dr. Seuss was included in hall decorating during spirit halls. Our theme was "Nightmare on B 3rd".

Acting Administrative Principal

To the Class of 1995:

"In whatever arena in life, one may meet the challenge of courage. Whatever may be the sacrifices he faces, he follows his concience-the loss of his friends, his fortune, his contentment, even the esteem of his fellow man. Each man must decide for himself the course he will follow. The stories of past courage can define that ingredient. They can teach, they can offer hope, they can provide inspiration, but they cannot supply courage itself. For this each man look into his own soul."

-John F. Kennedy-

The past four years as your advisor have been rewarding, challenging, at times frustrating but very enjoyable. The friendships we have developed are a rich reward for the many hours of work.

National Honor Society

The Stoughton High School National Honor Society Chapter is full of intelligent, energetic students working for the school and the community. These juniors and seniors are led in their endeavors by the following 1994-1995 elected officers: President -Snehal Patel, Vice-President - Lee McColgan, Corresponding Secretary - Barbara Huppe, Recording Secretary - Jaime Levine, Treasurer - Jeremy Fischer, and Parliamentarian - Andrew Baker. To attain the honor of becoming a member of this group, applying students must have a B+ average overall and show leadership qualities in a number of areas of extra-curricular and out-of-school activities. Students are evaluated periodically to ensure that these standards are being met.

The National Honor Society runs and aids in many community programs and services through the school. The group collected teddy bears and other such stuffed animals for the needy and participated in an "Easter Seals Shoot-out." As well as running their own fundraiser, the popular Valentine's Day Flower Sale, National Honor Society helps out with the Student Council's Senior Citizen Banquet and members act as guides for Parent-Teacher Conferences. The members also worked with a local group to run a Youth Fishing Derby at Ames Pond in June. Clearly the National Honor Society is a group of people prepared to continue their work and make a difference in the future.

Recycling Club

Since its first year in 1989, the Stoughton High School Recycling Club has come a long way. With the aid of the club advisor Ms. Herrera, the Recycling Club has successfully had many paper drives and continues the aluminum can collection. The club meets every first and third Monday of each month. The club's President for the 1994-95 school year was Mariam Bakir, Vice-President Janeen Labbe, Treasurer Lillie Johnson, and Secretary Maria Salvador. They have sponsored the Spirit Week can drive and there are can collectors near the soda machine in the cafeteria. Their point is to help the environment. The club would like to wish the class of '95 great success in the years to come.

Science Olympiad

The Science Olympiad is a team of SHS students from all four grades that compete against other schools in the fields of science. Competitions range from physics to biology to chemistry to earth science and everything in between. There are several meets held each year around the state and in 1995, SHS competed in two of them. The first one was March 4 at Bridgewater-Raynam High School where the team placed fifth in the region. The second was on April 8. The fifteen members of the Science Team traveled to the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in Cambridge for a meet attended by the best groups in the state. Overcoming bus misscheduling and timing mix-ups, the SHS group did well and made their school proud of them.

Peer Leadership

In 1994-1995, the group was led by President, Rachel Appel; Vice-President, Joshua Winter; Treasurer, Kristin Woessner; and Secretary, Nicole Pearl; as well as the perennial advisor Mr. Flynn. This dedicated group works hard to encourage a happy and healthy school environment. They have sponsored such programs as the "Words Not Weapons" seminar and the "Green Circle" program. The group meets weekly, on Thursdays, to discuss and plan future events. They have accomplished a great deal and hope that the future will be as successful.

Math Team

The Stoughton High Math Team ended their successful year by winning he privilege to enter in the State Playoffs in April of 1995. Twenty-three eams in four divisions worked hard all year long to be eligible for this nonor. There were four meets throughout the year and Stoughton finished trong, tied for first with Sharon High School in Division 1 and second out of all twenty-three teams. At the end of these meets, the top eight schools are eligible for the playoffs. In the playoffs, Stoughton High came in third inalizing their year and qualifying them for a trip to the State Playoffs. The nath team was led by seniors Veronica Vieira, Snehal Patel, Barbara Huppe, Nava Cretu, and Joahd Touré. Veronica Vieira scored the league's highest score and Snehal Patel scored the third highest. The juniors who scored varsity points were Steven Cohn, Michael Hahn, Nelson Vasconcelos, Courtney Leavitt, and Artyom Makagon. The following are the sophomores and reshmen that participated: Micah Symynkywicz, Brian Woodward, Christopher Anzivino, Alexandra Molnar, Jennifer Ozog, and Edward Kim (who came in fourth). Their supportive and guiding leader was Ms. Churchill.

Math Olympiad

In September of 1964, the First Executive Board of the Massachusetts Association of Mathematical Leagues (M.A.M.L.) was formed n order to give students in Massachusetts a chance to prove how good their math skills were. They created a test that is still taken today. Though a few adjustments have been made, the test still has 30 questions ranging in difficulty from basic mathematics to calculus. The top 5,000 students in Massachusetts are able to participate in this exam and only the top 100 succeed. Unfortunately, no one from S.H.S. had this honor, but they came extremely close. Snehal Patel was in the top 97 percentile and was awarded a Certificate of Merit. Many others came in the 80 percentile or better. Congratulations to all and thank you to Mr. Woodruff for all your help.

Alternate Infinity

If students are interested in science fiction, horror, suspense, imagination, speculative and occult literature or films, Alternate Infinity is the club for them. Led by advisor Mr. Chamberlain, students address the questions raised by authors of these mediums in comparison with questions found within their own lives. They reflect on problems that they share with all humanity on a planet with problems of ecological balance, human versus machine conflict and interaction, new technologies, and even the survival of the planet itself. "Science fiction," as a category, offers answers to some of these difficult questions. The group meets weekly to discuss all of these things.

Close-Up

Close-Up is an educational and fun-filled week spent in Washington D.C. that focuses on U.S. politics and government. Though it is open to all juniors and seniors, one must have good academic and disciplinary records to participate. The program actually occurs early in March, but students must prepare in the preceding weeks in order to draw the most from the seminars. Students read special books about the topics that will be covered, and prepare short presentations for their fellow participants so that everyone will be equally knowledgeable in the necessary fields. Once in Washington, participants discuss the problems and methods affecting the United States today with other students from different areas, staff members, and political personalities. Students from Stoughton High have met with such figures as Representative Joe Moakley and Senators Ted Kennedy and John Kerry. While all this is going on, the program is a time when students are able to tour the monuments, buildings, streets, and restaurants of Washington D.C. Close-Up is an educational journey that enables students to make friends and experience a new place all at once.

The Knight

The Knight is a school oriented newspaper which is published several times throughout the year. As Editors-in-Chief, Ali Baaj and David Levy keep busy searching for articles and pictures by students to be published in The Knight. Writers include Journalism classes and other students who have something to say. Mrs. Weiner guides the staff along by reviewing and revising their future newspaper. The Knight is a place where all students can "speak" their minds about school and social issues, as well as read up about new movies, music groups, and concerts. The newspaper covers most major school events and has periodic check-ups on all the sports teams. At different times of year, such as Valentine's Day, the student body has the opportunity to but space in the paper to leave messages for friends. The Knight also sponsors a writing contest each year. The Knight has succeeded in its goal of putting together an inexpensive school newspaper that student and teacher alike can enjoy.

Intramural Writing Contest

The Intramural Writing contest is open to junior English students who wish to compete. The contest consists of a one-hour impromptu writing assignment on a given topic. As the topic is given on the day of the "exam" students are not able to prepare for it. The school intramural writing contest is actually a prelude to a larger multi-school contest. Each year S.H.S. students write imaginative, outstanding essays, thereby making it more difficult for the teachers of the English department to act as judges, reading and numerically rating the anonymous papers. Certificates are given out for Honorable Mentions, Semi-Finalists, and two Finalists. The two Finalist's entries are then forwarded to the larger March competition for judging. All students that participate deserve credit for taking the time out to write for this contest.

Students Against Drunk Driving

SADD (Students Against Drunk Driving) is a group of teenagers who are concerned with drunk driving in today's society. The goal of SADD is to make fellow students aware of the risks involved with alcohol and drug abuse and driving under the influence of such substances. Members of this group accomplish this through a series of activities: making announcements at critical times of the year such as proms, graduation, and the holidays; writing newspaper articles; distributing message cards; providing red ribbons; hanging posters; creating bulletin boards; and designing a billboard. One of SADD's most popular programs in the Contract for Life, a contract that parents and students sign pledging that rides will be available and called for (respectively) if necessary. During the 1994-1995 school year, SADD flourished under the leadership of the advisor, Miss Blenner, and the board, as follows: President - Nicole Woessner, Vice-President - Jennifer Mullen. Secretaries - Jaime Levine and Elena Perlin, and Senior Class Representative - Patricia Pierre. SADD will continue to advocate no drinking and driving in the future.

Law Club

Law Club is a group of students grades 9-12 who are interested in the legal system of the United States and want to promote knowledge of the laws that govern us. The club sponsors guest speakers on various law-related topics such as the O.J. Simpson Case and the search of one's car or personal properties or any topic that is of interest to the membership and student body. In recent years, members have visited the Southeast Correctional Facility's Project Outlook Program, and the club sends a student delegate to Washington D.C. each year to attend a law seminar. Ms. Berman is the law club advisor and the 1994-1995 officers are Sandra Blatchford as President, Jennifer Levine as Vice President, Michelle Bernstein as Secretary, and Ben Graupen as Treasurer. The Law Club has been and will continue to be successful in educating the students about the law.

Model Senate

Model Senate is a national program that allows students to learn about the congressional process of writing bills and passing them through committees and on the "floor." Some of the topics that are discussed and written about are abortion, violence prevention and gun control, AIDS awareness, the environment, Social Security, welfare, and the such. Students have to satisfy several requirements in order to sell these bills to a Congress made up of representatives from different schools in the area. Stoughton High School is part of the Hockomock League Model Senate. The group is led by Ms. Berman and the Stoughton representatives are Jennifer Mullen and Lynn Kimball.

1995 Stotonian Yearbook

The 1995 Stotonion Yearbook has been a cooperative effort right from the start. From the surveys passed out, to the layouts and articles that make it up, this yearbook has been a success.

It all began back in June of '94, when six students from the Yearbook staff represented the Class of 1995 at the Jostens Yearbook Seminar. Here they learned how to appropriately assemble the ideal yearbook. During this adventure at North Adams State College, friends were made, skills were developed, and things were finally accomplished. It also was a good time considering the work and the time schedule these students had to abide by. By the time they returned, these students had learned a great deal about how to create a successful yearbook. When they returned, they had a tremendous amount of information to educate the other members of the yearbook staff about. Basically, they taught the others the "tricks of the trade."

Many students have joined the yearbook staff since then, learning, in that time, the "how to's" of structuring a yearbook. They have contributed and layed-out the articles and photographs that make-up pages of the Stotonian. Through all of the trying times and difficult tasks the students came to realize what it takes and the attitude you need to make it work. This yearbook was fortunate enough to have these kind of dedicated people to make it successful.

TIMING IS EVERYTHING

Spirit fuels the varsity kickers

Plowing through and making headway

The season started with reconstruction; the Knight's soccer team had not only lost four varsity men, but their coach. Mr. Michael Stuber stepped in just weeks before the season's opening. In that time he had pulled together a hard working machine, which rolled over the pitch of pre-season opponents. They knew their first match up would be the test, and the squad collided with the challenge head on.

The Booters' demeanor was always tough and aggressive. They were a hungry group, and their record of 7-10-1 is proof. Co-captains Dan Zelman and Steve Dancey headed the team against the many menacing opponents faced this season. Senior sweeper Michael Maltby conducted the solid defensive lines of Rich Fraga, Marty Novello, Ali Baaj, Chris Loayza, and Sergio Deana. In his second varsity season, junior goalkeeper Mark Pongonis' much improved performance in net was unbelievable. With his experience and agility, Mark's saves rallied team spirit when times looked bleakest. Great support from mid-fielders Dan Zelman, Thorsten Henkel, Steve Dancey, Kevin Silveira, Geoffrey Dancey, Ruben Vasconcelos, Dave Leal, and Rick Alves gave the offensive lines of Val Teixiera, Debo Sekoni, Sadique Hassan, Eric Seager, Steve Soares, Robert Baldes, and Stephen Gillis ideal opportunities to score. Although the Knights fell short of the tournament, their performance and drive were never lacking.

The Varsity Girls Soccer squad of sixteen players entered the season with determination, positive attitudes, and an undying commitment for the game of soccer. Senior co-captains Lauren Piasecki and Tara Gregoire led the kickers in their 4-13-1 season. Freshman strker Katie Maltby led the goal scorers along with Kerry McElaney, a Hockmock League All-Star. Other great efforts in the forward line were assisted by Diana Andrade, Tabitha Jannini, Erin Fahey, and Stephanie Carroll. Unfortunately, the Knights were plagued with the constant reoccurrence of injuries- forcing the team to finish the majority of the season with eleven and twelve players. Yet the girls didn't succumb to another obstacle; they played through it- continuously rising to the challenge posed by each new opponent. The defensive line, headed by sweeper Barbara Stewart and goalie Lauren Piasecki, held strong. Sarah Ferguson, Doreen Trigueiro, Lisa Ormond, Traci Feibel, Denise Brown, Mikaela Fahey, and Nicole LaCasse joined the struggle to halt their opposition's attempt to penetrate the lines. The Lady Knights came out of the season with a sense of achievement, for with each challenge they faced, the squad, with perseverance, focused on it and gave their best effort in each shot. And because of the teamwork they possess, the girls are all winners.

This year the Black Knight Field Hockey team finished their season with a 5-10-3 record. Although they did not perform to the level that they had hoped, their team spirit and morale surpassed any expectations it had.

The season began on a good note with a 1-0 victory over North Attleboro. And although the next few games ended in losses, the battles were fought hard to the end with the Black Knights dominating each game. With a come from behind win over Sharon, the Black Knights bid for a tournament berth were high. This goal of making the tournament became even closer to reach as the Black Knights rode through mid-season with a few close ties and victories.

Unfortunately, some tough games put the Knights in a deep hole, having to obtain 8, out of its last 10 points. Due to the 4-1 loss to Canton, and two tough non-league games with Norwood, the Knights' dreams of post season play had ended.

Despite the disappointing and frustrating season, there was not a time when the team hung their heads. From the very first day of double sessions in August, until the final game was over, the Black Knight Field Hockey team defined the true meaning of a team.

The Black Knight Gridmen rushed the season with tremendous determination. It was their "never say die, never quit attitude" that drove them through a rough season according to Coach Gregory Burke. Commitment and attitude maintained the solidarity of the players. Unfortunately, the season was not reflective of the hard work the Knights had consistently displayed. Captains Scott Gallan, Mike O'Day, and Ryan Ulrich are credited with the key leadership needed for the football team's 1-8-1 season. "They kept the team together" and "kept spirits high", the coaching staff of Greg Burke, William Cotter, Ed Bent, and Bruce Jackman held a lot of respect for these young men.

Another key was the seniors. Although a small group, Dave Apotheker, Paul Cowan, Scott Gallan, Angelo Graffeo, Mike O'Day, Mark Vasconcelos, Ben Pane, Ryan Ulrich, Carlos Bairos, Peter Welch, and Tony Taglieri set a standard for the team. Many first time players manned the turf; the lack of experience was a drawback. Over all, Coach Burke said the year was enjoyable, he had never worked with a better group, and felt the boys matured a lot through the adversity found on the field. They may not have achieved a glorious record, but what they have gained surpasses the numbers: they are victorious.

Hocks Championships — 5th place

South Shore Principals Invitational — 15th place

The girls' cross country team entered the season with only three veterans returning-seniors Janeen Labbe and Captain Jaime Levine, and sophomore Diane Tremblay. Despite the lack of experience, however, seniors Laura Petrelli and Elizabeth Ribeiro, and freshmen Erica Curtis, Tricia O'Neil, and Kim Gusciora proved themselves to be first-class runners. The top five runners for the team were Erica Curtis, Janeen Labbe, Jaime Levine, Laura Petrelli, and Liz Ribeiro, who also were interchangeable in their placement from race to race. Although these runners were very talented, the team's record of 1 win and 7 losses in no way reflected the team's true potential.

The season seemed to be "plagued" by sickness and injury. Despite these trying times, however, the girls and Coach Robert Tosca never gave up hope or settled with anything less than one hundred percent of their effort. It is the dedication and committment, as well as their sense of spirit and support that made this team a winning team of heart, regardless of their final record.

I'm ahead of the pack . . . I just hope I can stay that way.

Wampanoag Invitational Tournament Champions — Record 10-0

The boy's "powerhouse" cross-country team rocked the Hockomock League, ending the 1994 fall season with a record of six wins and two losses. With a record to prove it, the team was without a doubt made up of many talented athletes. The members of the team, however, contributed more than just their athletic ability. Their overall spirits remained high even in those few meets that they lost. Seniors Joahd Toure, Scott Gibbons, and Snehal Patel; juniors Kyle Fredericks, Gary Stone, Mike Flynn, Ryan Wilensky, Steven Cohn, and David Guglia; sophomores Chris Rantz and Steven Cofran; and freshmen Tim Briere, Chris Britton, Adam Christensen, Mark Conopka, and Mike Boland, along with their coach, Todd Elwell, demonstrated to the school and their opponents what a winning attitude was.

While it is true that the practices were difficult, the training a continuous struggle, the accomplishments and the rewards that the members of the boys cross-country team have gained over the course of the 1994 season were definitely worth all the hard work.

The Boys Swim Team finished a tough season at 5-10. Although the over-all record may not cause a splash, the competitive drive of the team was felt by opponents like a tidal wave. The men, led by captains Joahd Toure and Jamie Woodward, stroked their way to qualify for six sectional events: 200 medley relay, 100 yd. freestyle, 100 yd. backstroke, 1 meter diving, 200 freestyle relay, and 400 freestyle relay. Kyle Dominick cut the surface like a knife and was claimed the League Diving Champion. Kyle and Joahd were named to the list of League All-Stars. Four new school records were set this season. Joahd Toure swam like a fish in water, setting records in the 200 yd. freestyle (2:12.03), 200 yd. ind. medley (2:26.68), and the 100 yd. freestyle (55.63). Also the 200 yd. free relay team of Kyle Dominick, Chris Leone, Jamie Woodward, and Joahd Toure set the record with a time of (1:48.78).

The Lady Knight swimmers dove into a tough season. Senior captains Amy Piaseczny, Shereen Russell, and Meg Tarpey kept the team stroking smoothly through the water during their 2-12-0 season. The girls surfaced tenth out of the pools at both the league relays and Conference Championships. Outstanding performances were put forth by Sue Gill in the 100 meter butterfly (1:22.42) and Janet Blatchford in the 100 meter backstroke (1:22.42), both of whom set team season records. The relay teams of Janet Blatchford, Tonslyn Toure, Sue Gill, and Amy Piaseczny in the 200 meter medley relay (2:24.78); Bonnie Johnston, Amy Piaseczny, Stephanie Shulman, and Sue Gill in the 200 meter freestyle relay (4:09.93); and Andrea Zechello, Sandra Blatchford, Meg Tarpey, and Sue Gill in the 400 meter freestyle relay (4:56.45) set team season records with their powerful efforts. Making a splash were Amy Piaseczny's solo efforts. She set individual records in the 50, 100, 200, and 500 meter freestyle. Also making waves were Becky Johnston, League All Star and team M.V.P., and Tonslyn Toure winning the team's season scoring title. The swimmers will lose five valuable, high performance seniors: Sandra Blatchford, Amy Piaseczny, Shereen Russell, Meg Tarpey, and Danielle Wheeler.

This year's varsity basketball team had a successful season accumulating a final record of 12-9 and a berth in the M.I.A.A. State Tournament. The squad was led by a strong nucleus of All-Stars: Marvin Pardo, Mike Grigalunas, and Justin Blackwell, accompanied by explosive efforts from Dave Charles, Dinis Aguiar, Mark Pongonis, Andy Baker, and Matt Kovner.

The Black Knights lost their first game against Canton, but went on to win the following two against Franklin and Mansfield. The momentum was broken however by a buzzer beater loss to Oliver Ames on the home court. The Knights then competed in the Scholastic Holiday tourney at St. John's Prep. After a first round loss to North Quincy, Stoughton bounced back to defeat Bostin Latin in the consolation match. The Knights lost their next decision to Foxboro, but came back to win the next eight out of nine including back to back wins over league powerhouses North Attleboro and Sharon. The Knights qualified for the M.I.A.A. Tournament with a strong win over Foxboro, and in the opening round lost to Norwood 59-55 during the final seconds. The Stoughton Varsity Black Knights strongly represented the school this 1994-95 season and gives a special "Thank you" to Coach Douglas and Coach Cotter for an excellent season.

The girls basketball team finished the season with an over-all record of 7-13. Although the record does not seem impressive, the positive attitudes that the girls had throughout the season and the hard work they incorporated made Coach Sullivan pleased with all their efforts. The team was led by co-captains Tracy Fritz and Tara Gregoire. This year Tara was named M.V.P. of the team and was chosen as a Hockomock League All-Star. Next year, the team will miss the leadership and sportsmanship of seniors Rachel Appel, Nichole Ferretti, Tracy Fritz, Tara Gregoire, Sarah Houghton, Kara Shea, and Danielle Wheeler. However, with juniors Michelle Fisher, Sue Gill, Courtney Leavitt, Kerry McElaney, Nili Schnairsohn, and Tanjaneka Williams, along with sophomore Nancy Gargiulo, the 1995-1996 season looks promising. The squad gives special thanks to senior Sarah Smeed for keeping the scorebook and trainer Mary Shinkwin for always being there when needed.

Knights pin team pride

Wrestlers' spirit survives injuries and inexperience

(Top) Cimpher makes yet anothe challenger kiss the mats. (Bottom DelConte makes the pin quick an painful.

With only three seniors returning to the mat this year Ben Rooney, Paul Cowan, and Mike Cimpher, the team tri-captains, understood the team's wins would not be high. The double teaming of Ben Rooney's perfect hip tosses and Mike Cimpher's technique and aggression would take control of the lower weight classes which Paul Cowan would use his strength and quickness to do the job in the upper-classes. Using this, the Black Knight wrestling team was on the right foot, defeating the Brockton Boxers with style (54-24). The Black Knights were running smooth until injuries started to take toll. After the first meet Ben Rooney was forced to retire early in the season due to severe ligament damage in the left hand. Cimpher, while still attracted to headbutts causing seven stitches to the head last year, suffered from a concussion during a meet. Paul Cowan, a second year wrestler, suffered from tendinitis and various other injuries causing him to miss a few matches early in the season. Although a great effort was put forth, numerous injuries and inexperience amongst young wrestlers took its toll on the seniors' final season. With Paul Cowan capturing fourth in South Sectional and Cimpher becoming first All State champion, undefeated in Massachusetts, and fourth in New England, the Stoughton Black Knight wrestling team still holds its pride.

Rebuild and conquer

Knight skaters construct a new team hungry for victory.

(Top) Black Knights cheer on one of their own. (Bottom) I think I can! I think I can!

The Black Knights hockey team ended a rough season with a 1-6 league record. The tri-captains pioneered the squad's extraordinary efforts on and off the ice. The icemen defeated Dover Sherborn in a non-league game 6-2, but couldn't manage to keep the puck moving against seasoned opponents. This year Coach Mark took on nine freshmen to the squad. It was a rebuilding year, and the Knights worked to strengthen and develop the team of newcomers. Midseason the Knights crushed King Philip 8-3 in a league encounter, but were immediately brought down by league power-house Franklin. Overall, the hockey team was on a roller-coaster of climaxes and lulls for the season packed with non-league and league games. This year the team will lose four seniors: Carlos Rodrigues, Mike Moura (Capt.), Mike O'Day (Capt.), and Kevin Poirier (Capt.). The team's determination and work ethic is representative of their drive and hunger to become victorious.

To some, cheerleading may seem like all fun and games, but in reality it's hard work and dedication that make it enjoyable. In April 1994, Diane Dolan held a try-out for varsity and junior varsity cheerleaders. The girls practiced approximately 4-6 hours a week to make the squad, time, they would all agree, was well worth it.

Over the following summer some of the varsity cheerleaders went to the Universal Cheerleading Association Camp held at Wheaton College. There they worked extremely hard, giving their all at every practice. Their energy paid off, because when competition time came at the end of the week, the Stoughton High cheerleaders won the Superior Trophy for the Most Spirited along with a number of Excellence ribbons.

Approximately one month later the girls received notice that they were invited to perform at the Citrus Bowl in Orlando, Florida. At the same time, senior Captain Tina Muse won the All-Stars trip to London, which she did not attend so that she could be with the squad in Florida. Without neglecting school and other activities, the cheerleaders did extensive fundraising for their trip. The exciting voyage to Florida was the highlight of their year.

While all this was going on, the girls still cheered at every football game and many continued into the basketball and hockey seasons, putting their heart and soul into their work. Their overall successful season ended with the squad saying goodbye to the two seniors, Jessica Johnson and Tina Muse. It was a great year for the Stoughton High Cheerleaders!!

A new beginning

The trackmen rebuild with a new coach.

The 1994-95 boys indoor track team, coached by newcomers Paul Kelley and Joe Lamar, ended its season with a record of 4-4. Captains Sean Earle, Carlos Bairos, and Jeremy Fischer led the team through its ups and downs. Earle was the dominant force in the Hockomock League and eventually went on to the Nationals, where he placed fifth in the high jump. He was also voted the team's M.V.P. The first four of the team's meets ended in victory with the team soundly defeating Canton, Franklin, Mansfield, and Oliver Ames in succession. From there, though, the luck of the team fell dramatically. A tough loss to King Philip was followed by another to Foxboro. The season ended with consecutive loses to Sharon and North Attleboro, respectively. Individual highlights of the season were junior standouts Kyle Fredericks and Steve Dancey, both of whom qualified for the Eastern Massachusetts Class B Meet. Senior Dave Dyckman also had a fine season. The team chooses to rack this one up as a rebuilding season. The departing seniors wish to thank Coach Kelley, Coach Lamar, Mr. Looney for his support, and Coach Elwell and Coach Curry for three years of support and teaching. Of course, the squad also wishes to thank their families for all they have contributed. Go Knights!

Hard-core winter

These ladies are all champions

Winter has always had the reputation of being the most bitter of seasons, but the Lady Knights of the track team experienced the most bitter of seasons. The Black Knights commenced the season with a strong win against Canton led by senior captains Sarah Lake, Jaime Levine, and Patricia Pierre. The newest addition to the team was Coach Richardson. Bruce Richardson had previously coached at Randolph and Cardinal Spellman High. The coach introduced the Black Knights to a new definition of determination and self-discipline. The team learned not to only depend on others for spirit, but to depend on what is held within.

The girls suffered many losses due to injuries and decreasing numbers. Even though the team suffered, they remained as one from beginning to end. The final record resulted in 3-5, but they had more knowledge of teamwork and dedication. The girls winter track team was filled with qualifying champions like Sophomore Rachelle Millien, who qualified for the state meet. She established a new school record in the shot put event with a distance of 32'9.5". Captain Sarah Lake also competed in the state meet with a strong run in the 200m dash. Junior Regina Pierre placed seventh in the class meet in the 50m dash, missing by an inch to advance to the states. Liz Bascon and Liz Young each ran a hundred percent effectively in the 50m dash and 100m events.

The team placed especially well in the Hockomock League Championship Meet. There were strong finishes by captain Patricia Pierre, Sarah Lake, Regina Pierre, and Rachelle Millien. They placed fourth out of nine schools. Each and every girl donated their time and effort to improve their talents and boost the team.

Knights vault into winter season

The girls Gymnastics team finished in third place in the Hockomock league. Co-captains Barbara Huppe and Kristin Woessner lead the team to a 6-6 season. The consistant dependability of performance on beam, vault bars, and floor layed a strong blueprint to build this winning team on. The whole team has finished strong and proved their talent and potential by tumbling over opponents. Stoughton claimed the mats as their own. The Knights will lose four quality senior athletes this season: Marilva Mendonca, Barbara Huppe, Kristin Woessner, and Analisa Alterisio. Strength will be maintained with all-arounds Lisa Collins and Jen Loayza, along with the many other skilled gymnasts awaiting their turn.

The Golf Team teed their way to a 6-9-1 season. The Knights drove to two major victories over Canton and Oliver Ames this fall. The reliable play of co-captains Jeff Clark and Lee McColgan, along with senior Matt Ponte proved to be significant assests for the team. Senior clubber Keith Glover also contributed to the team's performance. Although the season was tough, the Hockamock Invitational Championship kept the season up to par. Lee McColgan tied for the first place title, but lost the playoff to finish in second. Jeff Clark, the defending champion, finished in fourth.

Batter Up!!

Playing With Power!!!

The Black Knight baseball team fought through a tough season. With many returning veterans the squad rallied, but fell just one run short at many a game. Heavy hitter Mike Gemelli, packed a loaded gun, sending a few bullets soaring out of the park. Meanwhile senior, Mark Gibbons and rookie Jarrod Rotondo set home plate on fire with their outstanding pitching. Outfielder Chris Baldner made fabulous plays, keeping the late day rays from blurring his vision. Todd Korchin, Joseph Ulrich, and Mike Hahn proved dependable batters, pulling out a much needed RBI here and there. This team looked good but the umpire's calls didn't seem to go their way.

Stoughton's 1995 Varsity Baseball team epitomized the motto "It's not whether you win or lose, it's how you play the game." 1995 wasn't the most successful season in Stoughton baseball history in terms of wins and losses, but success has many faces. A notable highlight of the season was Mark Gibbons being named MVP and Todd Korchin and Mark Gibbons being named All-Stars. Seth Berman was was awarded the Sportsmanship Award. The season was successful in that Coach Ashley once again passed on his vast knowledge and enjoyment of the game to the members of his team. The squad practiced hard to be competitive. By the end of the season, the younger players who were forced to step up and accept pivotal roles had drastically improved. These players will form a strong nucleus for the years ahead.

The 1995 Varsity Softball season began with preseason scrimmages against the toughest teams in the state. Lead by Captains Kara Shea, Sara Smeed, Debbie Zanca and a strong Nucleus of seniors- Tracy Fritz, Sarah Houghton, Jenn Mullen, Meg Tarpey, Danielle Wheeler and Nicole Woessner-the team was prepared for another successful season. The opener was against Walpole, who suppressed Stoughton by defeating them, ? to ?. Stoughton retaliated two games later, beating Walpole, six to three. In just the fourth game of the season, the team suffered a season-ending injury.

The team showed their true colors and completed a winning season with Tracy Fritz taking over the pitching duties. Second place was captured in the Hockomock League although Stoughton suffered back-to-back losses to Franklin and Canton. With the loss of Zanca, many players stepped up their games to help the team. Fritz, Shea, and Smeed were selected to the Hockomock League All-Star Team and Smeed was named MVP of the league. Fritz and Smeed was also named to the Boston Globe All-Scholastic Team.

On May 27th and 28th, Stoughton traveled to Apponaquet to play against Carver and Dartmouth in preparation for the league tournament. Despite a great defense game against Carver, Stoughton only scored one run and lost, 3 to 1. The next night it took Stoughton eleven innings before defeating Dartmouth, four to one. Stoughton was ranked fifth in Division 2 South, and opened post-season play with a win (6 to 0) against Barnstable. In second round play, Stoughton defeated Durfee, 4 to 1.

Making A Racket

It's All How You Play

Although the Black Knight tennis team entered their season with a solid foundation of experienced players, mentally the boys couldn't seem to focus on their task at hand. The crew trudged through a tailspin season; with first year coach Stephanie Daniel being the team's third coach in four years. Continuity is the one thing these players haven't established. Returning to the Knights were captains Keith Glover and Jason Fisher. Glover finished his senior year at first doubles-partnered with Chris Santos, and Keith was voted the team's most valuable player. Senior, Jay Fisher ended his membership with the squad at the second singles spot. Rob Kaufman leaves the team after an extraordinary effort at second doubles with newcomer Mike obelsky. Underclassmen Eric Books and freshman Randy Shefshick rallied for position as the first and third singles players, respectively.

Overall, the tennis team, yet again has made a new start, and hopefully they'll see the balls begin to fall into their court. The team had a tough season, but with many good players they pulled together and played well helping to keep the team spirit.

The Lady Black Knights varsity tennis team led by captains Hae Min Kwan and Barbara Huppe were a young, unseasoned squad. The girls fought hard, wanting each match-but falling with them just out of reach. Underclassman Christie McDonald was the team's first singles player winning her match against Sharon. Mary Haidar and Lauren Cabral teamed up at second doubles to defeat Franklin. Senior Hae Min Kwan has always been one of the team's most dependable and strongest competitors. She was named the team's most valuable player. Barbara Huppe received the sportsmanship award.

Nothing seemed to deter the team's determination and spirit throughout the season. Even under the worst conditions, the team learned that it's not over until it's over. With few seniors leaving the team next year's possibilities are endless. Although this was not a winning season for the Lady Knights, and because of the talent this young team has shown, proves next year's team has a bright future to look forward to.

The Track Pack Explodes!!!

The Black Knights outdoor track team had an explosive season. Senior co-captain Carlos Bairos heaved the short put and hurled the discus far beyond many tough competitors. The lightning fast 100 relay team streaked by their opponents. Alvin Lewis threw his body into the long jump. Meanwhile David Dyckman and Richard Marrow smoked their challengers in the 100m and 200m sprints, respectively. If any members of the opposing team remained standing, co-captain Sean Barker-Earl rocked their world. With wings on his feet Sean flew to the finish in the 110 hurdles and seemed to touch the sky-while reaching extraordinary heights-in the high jump. Not to mention his awesome efforts in the triple jump. The squad of tracksters whittling by their competition this season. In one word . . . WOW!

Coach, Joe Lamar, in his first year as head coach, likes his overall team talent. However, for the first time in many years, Soughton has a problem in enough manpower. With a team of twenty-five trackmen Lamar said he may not have enough for each event. Many trackmen will have to double up events. This year the team was strong in the hurdles, high jump, sprints and middle distances. It had a lot of potential and it pulled a few upsets.

The Lady Black Knights Spring track team raced by any opposition this season. These ladies came out strong and hard fought victories resulted from rigorous training and dedication. Liz Bascon stomped out some of the squad's competition in the 100m dash, while newcomer Elizabeth Young shaved off her speed and endurance in the 800m race. Senior trackster Stephanie Carroll leaped over competitors in the triple jump. Co-captains Patricia Pierre soared over the 100 hurdles while Sarah Lake burned up the track in the 200m and 400m sprints.

All the girls received support from their excellent coach and more importantly other teammates. The year was one in which everyone reached and or exceeded their personal best. Sarah Lake was this year's team All-Star. The MVP Award was given to Patricia Pierre and the Sportsmanship Award was received by Liz Bascon. The team achieved many things which are important in becoming a success. This team of speedsters was on fire, yes this season the track team was H-O-T!

Performing

Mark time. March; ready begin! The Stoughton High School Marching Black Knights began their incredible season with the annual band camp. For the last week of summer, these dedicated students practiced every night and all weekend. Once school started, grueling rehearsals continued on Tuesday and Thursday evenings and Saturday mornings. However, Sundays were reserved for the competitions.

Who is it exactly that makes it all possible? First, are Mr. Christianson and Mr. Dorgan, who coordinate the musical store, which this year was by the band "Chicago". Second, is the talented staff which engineers and teaches each set to coordinate with the music, ensuring an exciting show. Third, are the amazing color guard directors who choreograph the band front, polishing off the marching band experience. Finally, no one can forget those enthusiastic parents faithfully raising mone helping out, and waving o ange flags at the competition and football games. C course, the integral part composed of the approx mately eighty students them selves. Whether it's diligentl practicing and playing an in strument, rigorously learnin flag and dance routines, just helping out with th technical details, withou their talent and dedicatio there would be no gold me als.

Wowing The Audience

Anyone who appreciates good music has got to love the Stoughton High Spring Music Groups. These groups, combinations of great singing, excellent playing, and the best coaching, put on dazzling performances at all their concerts. They take to the stage with butterflies jetting through their bellies at the highest of speeds, yet we the audience never see their nervousness. Instead, our eyes and ears are amazed by the incredible harmonies and dancing that appear on the stage.

First there's the Concert Band with its many members never missing a beat and always playing impressively. This excellent group counts the school's best at flute, trumpet, trombone, saxophone, clarinet, oboe, and drums amongst its members. The director of the Concert Band is Mr. Christianson.

Then the Jazz Band takes to the stage. The elite members are the greatest in the school and always keep the audience's feet tapping to a jazzy beat. Soloists stand proud and accept the cheers that are due unto them while the cohorts in music play on behind them. These musicians really demonstrate why they were chosen to be in this select ensemble.

The Chorus now appears, a group of great-voiced young people belting out tunes. Their renditions of songs like "The Sweetest Days" at graduation and other concerts will forever remain embedded in our hearts. These singers' dedication to their music is visible in every note they sing to the accompaniment c Mrs. D'Angelo, and for thi they deserve a great deal c credit.

On December 3, 1994, the Stoughton High School Drama Department hosted a musical dinner theater, Through the Years, in the high school cafeteria. The play itself consisted of twenty-one various skits and songs from plays and musicals performed at S.H.S. in the past twenty-five years. Not only did the audience enjoy the wonderful entertainment, they also enjoyed a three course meal served by the cast members throughout the evening. Slight technical difficulties arose when they thought there was not enough food for everyone, but all eventually received their meals and the show did go on!

Christopher Larsen and David Levy graced the stage with their presence as the comedic Masters-of-Ceremony. They also performed yet another rendition of the song, "Everybody Ought to Have a Maid," from the production of "A Funny Thing Happen on the Way to the Forum" (1994), and a blood-curdling scene from "Dracula." Some other dazzling showstoppers were: "No Time At All" (Pippin) sung by Melissa Young, "Sit Down You're Rockin' the Boat" (Guys and Dolls) performed by Chris Larsen and "One Brick at a Time" (Barnum) sung by Elana Swardlick. Other solo acts included Elena Perlin's "So Long Dearie" (Hello Dolly) and a side-splitting incident with a piece of cardboard from "Reasons to be Cheerful" done by Jean-Paul Reed, Alyssa Mills, and Amy Basque.

Other talented cast members included Mark Toland, Mindi Goldsmith, Elizabeth Young, Katie Schmidt, Helena Gaffin, Carrie Hedman, Christopher Piaseczny, Perla Vidal, Shereen Russell, Alisa LeBrun, Lisa America, Talia Gonzalez, and Erika Bettencourt. The evening was one of many laughs and will be one to remember for years to come. Congratulations go out to Mrs. Dolan and the many who helped the play to become a success!

Anything G

The 1995 Spring Musical was entitled "Anything Goes." A love story set in the present time, the show takes place on a cruise ship, the S.S. American, heading to England. The main plot of the story revolves around four couples falling in love. The first is Sir Evelyn Okleigh (Joshua Winter) and lounge singer and former evangelist Reno Sweeney (Michelle Romeiro); the second is Billy Crocker (David Levy) and Hope Harcourt (Robin Dutra); the third is gangster Moonface Martin (Christopher Larsen) and Bonnie (Melissa Young); and finally Hope's mother Mrs. Harcourt (Nava Cretu) and Elijah J. Whitney (Mark Toland), Billy's boss. Other important characters were the Captain (John Rugo) and Reno's backup singers, the Angels (Elana Swardlick, Katie Schmidt, Kimberlee Pezza, and Natalie Rebelo).

Goes . . .

The cast, under the direction of Mrs. Dolan, began practicing six weeks prior to the March 30th and April 1st performance dates. At first, they practiced a maximum of 8 hours each week, but by production week, they escalated that number to 35 hours. During this time, the magnificent two-deck cruise set was built by Mr. Dolan, husband of the director, and "Tom." Ms. D'Angelo was preparing a pit band made up of students, parents, and teachers. Mrs. Bucklin and Miss Sullivan aided in making costumes. By the end of the final performance, nearly 75 people had a hand in this terrific production. All in all, the SHS musical of "Anything Goes" was a resounding success.

(Top-Bottom) Billy Crocker and Hope Harcourt proclaim their love for each other. Reno Sweeney and the Angels reminisce in a song about their home, New York. A final curtain call: (Top-Bottom, Left-Right) Kimberlee Pezza, Christopher Leone, Jean-Paul Reed, Perla Vidal, Erika Bettencourt, Diane Tremblay, Courtney Maysles, Lindsay Rosenfield, Sarah Ferguson, Jaime Larsen, Erica Fillion, Amy Basque, Elana Swardlick, Christopher Larsen, Melissa Young, David Levy, Robin Dutra, Michelle Romeiro, Joshua Winter, John Rugo, Nava Cretu, Mark Toland.

Friends Through the Years . . .

In kindergarten your idea of a good friend was the person who let you have the red crayo when all that was left was the ugly black.

In first grade your idea of a good friend was the person who helped you by holding your han as you walked through the scary halls to the bathroom.

In second grade your idea of a good friend was the person who helped you stand up to th class bully.

In third grade your idea of a good friend was the person who shared their lunch with yo when you forgot yours on the bus.

In fourth grade your idea of a good friend was the person who was willing to switch squar dancing partners in gym so you wouldn't have to be stuck do-si-do-ing with nasty Nick smelly Susan.

In fifth grade your idea of a friend was the person who saved a seat on the back of the bus fo you.

In sixth grade your idea of a friend was the person who went up to Nick or Susan, your ne crush, and asked them to dance with you, so that if they said no you wouldn't have to be em barrassed.

In seventh grade your idea of a friend was the person who let you copy the social studie homework from the night before that you had forgotten about.

In eighth grade your idea of a good friend was the person who helped you pack up you stuffed animals and old baseball cards so that your room would be a "high schooler's" room but didn't laugh at you when you finished and broke into tears.

In ninth grade your idea of a good friend was the person who went with you to that "cool party thrown by a senior so you wouldn't wind up being the only freshman there.

In tenth grade your idea of a good friend was the person who changed their schedule so yo would have someone to sit with at lunch.

In eleventh grade your idea of a good friend was the person who gave you rides in their ne car, convinced your parents that you shouldn't be grounded, consoled you when you broke u with Nick or Susan, and found you a date to the prom.

In twelth grade your idea of a good friend was the person who helped you pick out a colleg assured you that you would get into that college, helped you deal with your parents who we having a hard time adjusting to the idea of letting you go . . . .

Time is both common and rare; we either have too much or too little. None of us believe we use it a well as we should. But unlike all the other ingredients in life, some time is for flavor and some time is just to give support to all the other ingredients we mix in. Time's importance is measured from where we sit when we do the measuring. Unfortunately, we frequently think to measure it after it is used rather than before. Then we realize that time is not a common luxury at all - but a rare and valuable gem.

-Washington Irving
